Emmanuel Williams : Riddles Knowledge Cards Quiz Deck before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Riddles Knowledge Cards Quiz Deck:

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Five Stars By D. Blackman Good transaction and product
1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. not my type of riddles By Caedo looking for good brain teasing riddles to mull over in my downtime at work, but these were simple little things like "what gets wetter as it dries" and it would be ok if they were all that good. Most, however, could be attributed to multiple things when they are just not very fun or engaging.
2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Lame By Anastasia Very strange and lame riddles, not the one where you can guess, but one where you should hear it before and remember the answer.. Don't like it.

Riddled with rhymes and rapt with wordplay, this deck of Knowledge Cards offers 48 enigmas that function as a brain gym in a box. With science revealing cognitive exercise to be as necessary and life-enhancing as physical exertion, poet and educator Emmanuel Williams (the author of Man Without Bones: Riddles from the Oral Tradition) created this collection of conundrums guaranteed to get your gray matter in gear. Using metaphor, simile, repetition, and rhyme, the cards' fronts describe everyday items in imaginative verses. Roll the clues around in your inner ear or voice them aloud to a crowd: either way, solving Riddles (answers are provided on the backs of the cards) will unwind your mind and stretch your imagination. We wish you good luck and good health! By Emmanuel Williams. With 48 fact-filled cards per package, Knowledge Cards are a great source of condensed information--all in a deck the size of a pack of playing cards. Size: 3 1/4 x 4 inches.

About the Author Williams grew up in South East England, then taught in London for some years. He continued his teaching profession while living in France, Indonesia, and the United States. He has written children's programs for the BBC, produced programs for children's radio in California, and has directed numerous multi-media performances which blended poetry with dance, music, slides and video. He produced a TV program featuring his nature poems with film and music for PBS, and wrote scripts for drama productions in literary festivals in England. As a poet he has worked in schools both in England and in California, and has therefore had the opportunity to try out his riddles on live audiences.
