This volume of Sneaker Tokyo in its entirety is a feature on Hiroshi Fujiwara, a man whose name has become synonymous with Tokyo's sneaker culture. Fujiwara, who is reputed as the ultimate pursuer of all of "cool" in a range of occupations such as music, fashion and art, has over the years applied his sharp sense and phenomenal eye for quality to the world of sneakers. Throughout the 80's and 90's, countless models such as Dunk, Court Force, Air Jordan, Superstar, Campus, Jack Purcell and North Wave became popular in Japan, simply because Fujiwara was wearing them. The sneaker archive in this book includes models from NIKE, CONVERSE, Gravis, visvim, new balance, PUMA, AIRWALK, NORTH WAVE, UNDERCOVER, Reebok, Sandal and more.

About the Author "SHOES MASTER" is a biannual magazine from Japan, featuring new models for the latest season and the exclusive stories which its professional editors produce by making full use of their network. Since 2009 they have been publishing a series of books called "Sneaker Tokyo," each volume of which delves into a single subject.
