From Brand: Visionaire Publishing, LLC : Visionaire #41: World before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Visionaire #41: World:

This is just a glorified stock photography book stuck in a cheesy Gap bag. Actually, I've seen stock photo books better than this! Bland, bland and bland is all I can say for the concept, design and photos in this issue. It seems like this is just a desperate attempt to generate some money while they work on a better (hopefully) issue of Visionaire. Don't get me wrong, I love Visionaire and own quite a few back issues myself. I just expect better from them than this half-hearted attempt at exploring a place called home. You would think the creative team that made this would have been brimming with ideas on how to describe the concept of "home", but instead you'll flip through page after same looking page and then never look through it again. Though any issue of Visionaire over number 25 is hardly "collectible" anymore, don't bother shelling out the cash for this one unless you are a diehard fan intent on having a complete collection. You'll probably find this issue in a bargain bin somewhere for 20 bucks. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Beautiful, thought-provoking book! By Ambrosia Absolutely stunning book. Tells an amazing visual story of the world we live in. It just takes a moment to stop and think to see the depth of the story being told. And the Gap bag/slippage that it comes in is SOOOOO cool!!

World (issue No. 41 in this exclusive publication series) is a visual response to all that is going on in the world today.

Leading artists, photographers, image-makers and personalities are asked to depict their towns, cities and countries of origin, places around the world where they feel at home--home being an ever-more difficult place to pin down these days. A memorable collection, a celebration of diverse cultures, World visualizes that which makes us individuals and that which brings us together... all across the world. Visionaire No. 41: World will be delivered in a customized, limited-edition Visionaire/GAP case--perfect for traveling around the world in style.
